T&O Cars from the Netherlands is delighted to present this stunning 1978 Cadillac Eldorado in Colombia Blue with a luxurious matching blue interior, with only 86k miles at the time of check in.

The 1978 Eldorado was the last traditional-size luxury car built by Cadillac. All of Cadillac's other models were greatly downsized by 1978. It was the end of the grand American luxury cruisers - determined to exit the scene with grace and style. It is the kind of car you look back at when you park it in the driveway and smile. Who cares if some thinks it a wasteful misfit in today's world. We know, and you know it represents a time many of us wish we could recapture, even for just for a minute. Well, here is your chance to return to the late 70's. When a peanut farmer was in the White House, and Cadillac ruled American automobilia as the ultra-luxury-must-have-vehicle! From New York to LA if you were anybody, you were rolling down the road in a Cadillac. It is also of the era where cushy living room comfort was the norm and this is no exception. So finish blow drying your hair, dig out your favorite 8-tracks, throw on some bell-bottom slacks & wide collar shirt and ride!, baby.

The exterior of this Cadillac has it all: gorgeous lines, a heavily padded landau blue vinyl roof, opera lights, body colored hub caps and elegant white walls to glide this land-yacht on the road. Her opulent-sink-into-interior is still original, and very comfortable. So comfortable you might want to crank up Donna Summer's "I Feel Love" or AC/DC's "You Shook Me All Night Long" just to stay awake. The climate control, 8-Track AM FM with factory CB and power three-way antenna, all work properly. Like so does the power trunk release with the soft close feature!

The Cadillac's smooth 425 V8- topped by Rochester's Quadrajet 4-barrel makes the right amount of power and pulls this vessel like a dream. After all, it's not a performance car. Cadillac's goal was to make it quiet and smooth and it does that very well - in town and on the freeway. The THM 425 transmission drives the front wheels, a feature shared by all Cadillac Eldorados since 1967. The layout makes servicing the engine user friendly, with an abundance of room under the hood.

Her overall condition is very good. The ELDo was resprayed early in its life in the late 90's due to some rock chipping, but never had any rust or damage. Absolutely ready to drive and enjoy! If you are looking for one of these, we recommend you give this clean low-mile example serious consideration. Anything less would surely disappoint. You will be hard pressed to find a nicer example of a big ol' caddy like this one! Whether you want to put horns on the front and go 'Boss Hogg' or just put your favorite godfather-hat on with a feather on the side and cruise the strip, this is the car to do it in!

Yes it is as big in person as it looks in the pictures. Gas may not be cheap anymore but that doesn't mean you can't have your own time machine.
